“Some people, in order to discover God, read books. But there is a great book: the very appearance of created things. Look above you! Look below you! Read it. God, whom you want to discover, never wrote that book with ink. Instead, He set before your eyes the things that He had made. Can you ask for a louder voice than that?”

St. Augustine (354-470)

The first line from Gerard Manley Hopkins’ poem God’s Grandeur:

“The world is charged with the grandeur of God.”

is my suggestion to all this summer. May all of us experience the wonder and grandeur of God’s Creation and give thanks and praise to the Lord. This time of summer is a great time to enjoy family and friends in the midst of God’s creation in the great outdoors. So while you go to the beach, play a round of golf, hike a mountain trail, or go snorkeling ponder the electrifying grandeur of God and think of this poem by Saint Augustine:

Question the beauty of the earth, the beauty of the sky, question all these.
question the order of the stars, the sun whose brightness lights the days, the moon whose splendor softens the gloom of night;
question the living creatures that move in the waters, that roam upon the earth, that fly through the air;
the spirit that lies hidden, the matter that is manifest; the visible things that are ruled, the invisible things that rule them;
question all these.
They will answer you: “Behold and see, we are beautiful.” Their beauty is their confession to God.
Who made these beautiful changing things, if not one who is beautiful and changeth not?
May this summer season be one of relaxation, refreshment, rejuvenation and reflection.
